Town of South Bethany News Update

March 23, 2015

60 Minutes Program of Sunday, March 22, spoke to impending action by FEMA in regards to insurance claims for victims of Superstorm Sandy.

Here are some points regarding this action as supplied by Jon Janowicz, Risk Analysis Branch Chief, FEMA Region III Mitigation Division, Greater Philadelphia Area:

- On Monday, March 16, FEMA took additional steps and formally requested all WYO insurance companies that service policies for the NFIP to submit information on all claims, with dates of loss occurring from October 27, 2012, through November 6, 2012, with expenses for engineering services. This data request is a necessary step for FEMA to ensure it is the best information available concerning all Hurricane Sandy NFIP claims that used engineering reports.
- FEMA is specifically requiring this information for all claims in states affected by Hurricane Sandy, including Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maryland, Maine, North Carolina, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Virginia, Vermont, and the District of Columbia.
- FEMA is committed to look across NFIP claims resulting from Hurricane Sandy by establishing a transparent process to ensure policyholders who are not part of ongoing litigation, but who believe they may have been impacted by similar circumstances as those in litigation, will have an avenue to have their claims reviewed.
- FEMA is developing a process for policyholders from Sandy to have their claims reviewed and resolved outside of litigation.
- When the process commences, FEMA will contact Sandy claimants and provide details explaining how to take advantage of this additional review. If policyholders believe they may have been defrauded or underpaid, FEMA will provide an avenue to bring those concerns and allow FEMA, if appropriate, to readjust their claim.

- Further details will be available in coming weeks.
